

PITTSBURGH TRIBUNE-REVIEW

---

IMAGINATION, NOT BATTERIES, FUELS "THINK-ETS" TRINKETS GAME

"Think-ets" is an innovative game that uses creative imagination instead of batteries, a plug or an online hookup. Inspired by Randy Compton's idea of putting miniature items into a pouch and turning it into a game for kids and parents, and Julie Lake's lifelong love of collecting small treasures, "Think-ets" features an assortment of detailed miniature trinkets. Together, the trinkets can be used to inspire storytelling or test memory, logic and more.

Each "Think-ets" drawstring pouch comes with a collection of 15 trinkets from all over the world.

The trinkets have been selected from 10 sources in eight countries, including Germany, India, Africa and the United States. The company draws from more than 150 unique trinkets so no two sets are alike.

"Think-ets" are available at specialty toy and gift stores. Sets sell for $12.99 and are designed for age 8 and older. For information, call Think-a-lot Toys at 303-449-2737, or visit online.

---